Question: 1

Which of the following is in the article regarding allowances?

- A. They should be generous
- B. They should not be given
- C. They should be tied to some responsibilities
- D. They should be given on a monthly basis

Answer: C

Explanation:

The author says that giving a child an allowance tied to the performance of certain family chores is an excellent way to teach the concept that money must be earned.

Question: 2

Which of the following best describes the opinion of the author?

- A. Children should be given no say in money matters.
- B. Children should be allowed to spend their own money however they wish.
- C. Children should not be given money at all.
- D. Children should be given increasing freedom to make their own decisions about how to spend money.

Answer: D

Explanation:

The author advises that, as children grow up and learn more, they should be allowed to make their own decisions about money and personal finances. Their decision-making should be supported with parental advice, but gradually the final decisions should be ceded to them.

Question: 3

This paragraph is best described as which of the following?

- A. Factual reporting
- B. Humor
- C. Fiction
- D. Poetry

Answer: A

Explanation:

The article provides information about a scheme to defraud internet users of money. It describes the mechanics of the fraud scheme and explains how the perpetrators intend to make money.

Question: 4

What is a "propensity for larceny?"

- A. A desire for compensation
- B. A proclivity for theft
- C. A talent for robbery
- D. A disinclination for pilferage

Answer: B

Explanation:

A propensity is a tendency to do something. Proclivity is a synonym for this. Larceny is a synonym for theft. Note that pilferage and robbery are also synonyms for theft, but that talent, which is a latent ability, does not mean the same thing as propensity, while disinclination has the opposite meaning.

Question: 5

The hoax described in the paragraph attempts to get the victim to send money to the perpetrator for what reason?

- A. To show good faith
- B. To pay Nigerian taxes
- C. To buy stationery
- D. To help the perpetrator escape persecution

Answer: B

Explanation:

According to the paragraph, the perpetrators cite many reasons for the need to send them money, among them payment of taxes, bribes to government officials, and legal fees.

Question: 6

What does the author conclude about the Nigerian letter gambit?

- A. It is a laughable attempt to defraud people that has little chance of success.
- B. It is a good reason not to open email attachments.

- C. It is sometimes legitimate.
- D. It is surprisingly successful.

Answer: D

Explanation:

Despite what might seem the unlikely nature of the come-on, according to the text the Nigerian letter scheme succeeds in bilking people out of millions of dollars annually.

Question: 7

This document is what type of document?

- A. A government request for proposals
- B. A process for making rules for working safely
- C. A portion of a contract
- D. A set of rules for working efficiently

Answer: B

Explanation:

As set out in section 1.0, Purpose and Scope, the document describes a procedure for identifying hazards associated with one or more jobs (in this case Tank Operations) or encountered by visitors and for instituting controls to mitigate (or minimize) the dangers that they present.

Question: 8

According to the procedure, if a worker is exposed to a hazardous chemical, which of the following is the last thing that should be tried to prevent injury or illness?

- A. Use a different chemical.
- B. Install fans to keep fumes away from the worker.
- C. Measure the amount of exposure of each affected worker.
- D. Give the worker protective clothing.

Answer: D

Explanation:

The methods to be used to mitigate hazards are given in section 4.1 of the text, which indicates that they are specified in descending order of use. Protective clothing is an example of the last method listed, personal protective equipment, so this is the last strategy to be tried to protect the workers from the hazardous chemical.

Question: 9

Welders must always use goggles and are taught to use them as part of their basic training. According to the text, which of the following is also true regarding the work instructions?

- A. The use of goggles during specific welding operations should be prominently displayed at the beginning of the work instruction
- B. The use of goggles during specific welding operations should be displayed as a caution prior to the welding step described in the work instruction
- C. The use of goggles during specific welding operations should be described in detail in the work instruction
- D. The use of goggles during specific welding operations should not be discussed in the work instruction

Answer: D

Explanation:

Section 4.2 indicates that safety procedures ("controls") that fall within the scope of normal training for workers do not need to be discussed in the work instructions for operations that are performed frequently.

Question: 10

Who would this passage would normally need to be read and understood by?

- A. Managers at the site
- B. Laborers at the site
- C. Visitors to the site
- D. Workers making deliveries to the site

Answer: A

Explanation:

The document is intended as a guide for those writing work instructions for jobs to be performed at the site. These work instructions are prepared by management. Workers and laborers would read those documents as part of their training.
